

Welcome

at our cafe "Wasserturm"

We are happy, that you are with us!

Did you know that...

... the "Wasserturm", as you can see partially still today, was built about 1874 as a "Gicht" tower and it was put into operation for two blast furnace? Inside the tower was a shell elevator, which carried ore mixture and coal to the upper end of the blast furnace. This part was called "Gicht" 1901 the tower was rebuilt to a watertower, which first supplied the rolling mill, later the apartment buildings nearby with water.

With a lot of sensitivity and expense the architect Titus Pernthaler renovated and expanded the widely visible building from 2010. Adjacent to the recently created Arboretum and in nearest neighbourhood to the hotel "Steirerschlossl" the tower is one of the inspiring places to enjoy.

By the way: here you can find one of the deepest fountains of upper styria with a depth of 27 meters.
